

Alimonies transfers should be:

- Regular, i.e., transfer payments must be to some extent be anticipated or relied on;
- Current, i.e., out of the income from the income reference period.

Regular can correspond to two different time scales:

- an annual amount paid every year or over several years;
- periodic payments (e.g. monthly) over a short period embedded in the income reference period (e.g. a semester).

The definition of regular does not refer to precise timing and does not require strong periodicity.

Alimonies include:

- Compulsory alimony and child support;
- Voluntary alimony and child support paid on a regular basis.
- Alimonies concern payments for children and a former spouse/husband which can be national or abroad.

Alimonies exclude:

- Regular cash support (other than alimonies) to persons other than household members;
- Regular cash support (other than alimonies) to households in other countries;
- Capital transfers and money drawn from saving.

By construction, HY130G >= HY131G.

As for HY130, in case of tax deductions, the paid amount of the regular cash transfer should be recorded in HY131G, while HY131N should take into account the tax deductions and repayments.

Description of flags

This income source uses one-digit and two-digit flags.

One digit flag ‘-4’: Amount included in another income component is used when the value could not be recorded separately from this component or is not collected at all separately.

When two digit flags are used, the first digit represents information for ‘most common source or method’ used, the second digit represents information for the ‘type of collected value’.

The imputation factor shows what percentage of a recorded (transmitted) value is collected and what percentage is imputed. The value should be recorded with two decimal places. Negative values are allowed.

Suggested question:

During last year (during 2022, income reference period,...), did you regularly give money to somebody in another household e.g. alimony payments to a child or to a former spouse/husband which can be either national or living abroad.

Please note that regular cash support (other than alimonies) to persons other than household members should be excluded.

If the answer is ‘Yes’, could you please indicate the total amount (in national currency) paid in 2022:
